The Orkney Pilot House is known as a British built runabout, offering a clear aft deck for fishing combined with efficient and comfortable accommodation. For the seasoned angler or someone looking for their first power boat, she is ideal.

This example comes with an Evinrude 75hp engine with less than 60 hours on the clock.

There is an auxiliary engine that this owner has never needed to use; he can always rely on the main engine.

With chart plotter, fish finder and vhf she has all the instrumentation one needs and a comfortable helm position with good visibility. Moving about the deck and going forward is easy and safe with grab rails just where one needs them to be. In the cockpit there is nothing to cause a trip and rod holders and bait table are conveniently placed.

A recent addition by the owner is a fixed fuel tank, which he has fitted in the central storage well of the aft deck.

The forecabin is bright with upholstery in good order. Here is seating, in addition to the seating in the wheelhouse, and two berths can be created. Under the starboard berth is a portable toilet.

There is storage in the forecabin in addition to the large storage lockers below the aft deck. The galley is to port and has a 2 ring gas stove, sink and ample storage.
