Black Delta

A 1970s classic design by Sparkman and Stephens.

This 1977 version of the She Delta 94 was built by Laird Adams at their South Hants yard.

Peter Poland said of the She Delta 94, 'This yacht is a joy to behold!'

Yachting Monthly said 'Regarded by many as the epitome of good design'

Black Delta has recently been refurbished with a number of improvements carried out including replacement of the original engine with a Nanni 14hp diesel.

The internal woodwork is particularly striking, and the general layout amply demonstrates her pedigree.

She is offered at a bargain price as the present owner is moving house.

The saloon offers ample seating around a table which folds down. An infill enables the port side seating to create a double berth. Opposite, the starboard side seating provides a single berth. There is a further single quarter berth starboard. The forecabin provides two single berths or, with the infill, a double.

The heads compartment is forward and has sea toilet and washbasin.

There is a good sized chart table to starboard aft.
